Enhancing School Safety Regional Training: Integrating Prevention and School Climate Improvement Efforts

DESCRIPTION:

The training will explore the fundamentals of preventing school violence by emphasizing the creation of systems and structures essential for positive school environments. Participants will engage in a collaborative session to identify, integrate, and align evidence-based school violence prevention strategies (e.g., inclusive discipline practices, bullying prevention, proactive social-emotional and positive behavioral supports).

WHO SHOULD ATTEND:

District and school-level educators, administrators, mental health staff, school resource officers, family liaisons, and other community partners involved in school safety and violence prevention efforts (e.g., discipline, social-emotional and behavioral development, climate and culture, multi-tiered system of supports). Although not required, it is highly recommended that attendees come as a multi-disciplinary team as content will target systems and structures and activities will include collaborative experiences.

WHEN: Friday, August 2, 2024, from 9:00-3:30 (lunch on your own)

WHERE: Adams State University, 208 Edgemont Blvd, Alamosa, CO 81101

LEARNING OBJECTIVES:

1. Explore elements of school safety plans in Colorado and how they connect to school climate improvement.
2. Describe school violence prevention and corresponding evidence-based practices.
3. Investigate contextual variables that impact school safety efforts.
4. Consider the systems and structures necessary to effectively integrate and align school safety efforts.
