

Proclamation

WHEREAS, Colorado continues to experience an unacceptably high dropout rate, inequalities in the academic achievement levels of students from different racial and socioeconomic groups, and low rates of enrollment and persistence in post-secondary education; and

WHEREAS, in order to address these issues, the state must look for new strategies for improving public education; and

WHEREAS, studies show that when parents, families, and schools collaborate effectively, students achieve higher levels of academic performance, demonstrate better attendance and homework completion, and are less likely to drop out of school; and

WHEREAS, students from all cultural backgrounds tend to perform better academically when their parents, families, and the professionals at their schools bridge the gap between the cultures of the home and the classroom; and

WHEREAS, students benefit from active involvement from parents and families that are well-informed and engaged in their lives and educations; and

WHEREAS, Colorado desires to increase graduation rates, academic achievement levels of all students, and raise rates of enrollment and persistence in secondary and post-secondary education;

Therefore, I, John W. Hickenlooper, Governor of the State of Colorado, do hereby proclaim, October 2017, as

*GIVEN under my hand and the
